My Feedback to Sarah:

Hi Sarah, I have seen that you are providing an amazing creative idea and the contributions made by you were very impressive. I know that the design part is the most important and primitive part of the project. You are excellent at it, which improves the quality of the product. But I have seen that sometimes you have been giving some technical feedback as a contribution which may lead to the misunderstanding we have to be more expertise in a domain so that it won't make any misunderstanding between the team, I appreciate your dedication to the work and the self-concerned mindset.

Are you open to receiving and embracing constructive feedback from your peers? If so, why?

I am open to receiving and embracing constructive feedback because I know that feedback will make us identify our mistakes and our performance will be identified. Without identifying mistakes, we can't upskill ourselves. The people who want us to grow will only give feedback to us. It is a help for us, so we need to admit whether it is got from the elder or younger one.
