

You are a team leader in a project-based environment where transparency has been an issue. Communication breakdowns and a lack of openness have led to misunderstandings, missed deadlines, and low team morale. Your team members have expressed their concerns, and you are determined to implement transparency practices to address these issues.

Questions:

1. What kind of assertive communication is encouraged to clarify expectations and roles?

Answer:

- As a team leader, I will first listen to the team member's concern about the transparency issue.
- And I will arrange the meetings regarding to the issue.
- By this meeting, Giving the opportunity to team member to share their thoughts.
- By giving the constructive feedback and clarifying the expectations, I can improve the transparency among the team and reduce the communication breakdown and lack of openness.

2. Describe specific communication strategies you will use to foster transparency within your team.

Answer:

- As a team leader, I will take the responsibility of the team.
- First, I will arrange the individual personal meetings for each team members to share their thought in the open mindset.
- Because each of them has some own thoughts but they can't be able to speak in the public.
- By collecting all the thoughts from the team and give the constructive feedback for every member in the team.
- I can reduce the communication breakdown and improves their confidence.

3. How do you establish effective feedback mechanisms by using “I” statements?

Answer:

- As a team leader, I will take the leadership among the team and give the space to team members to share their thoughts.

- Based on the thoughts, I will give the constructive feedback to improve the transparency among the team.
- And reduce the communication breakdowns and a lack of openness.